

Source: ABC News Online, 6 Mar 08

Rex raises fuel surcharge to $30

New South Wales airline Regional Express (Rex) has announced its fuel surcharge will rise by $3 tomorrow to $30.

The company says the continued rise in the price of fuel has forced it to lift the surcharge for both Rex flights and its subsidiary, Air Link.

Rex last increased its surcharge to $27 in November.

In a media release, Rex said it is also adjusting fares on selected routes, but has not said whether they are going up or down.