Rex promises year-round service

There is an assurance today from the airline servicing the Monaro and Snowy Mountains that it will again provide an all-year-round service.

Last year, Regional Express (Rex) cancelled its summer timetable, saying that it did not have enough pilots to service the run.

But airline spokeswoman Danielle Ross says the latest licence renewal for Rex's Sydney-Cooma run makes a full service mandatory, except under extenuating circumstances.

"In our licence submission we did propose a year-round service as we have done since starting on the route back in 2004, and it is a condition that we do stick to this schedule and any changes would require us to submit a request to the New South Wales Ministry of Transport," she said.
