Rex said today one of the airline's Boeing 737-800NGs had been sent to Singapore for scheduled maintenance work at a world-renowned MRO facility.

The aircraft, VH-RYU, is one of six 737s in the Rex fleet and flew from Melbourne to Singapore via Darwin last Saturday.

The 737 is undergoing a scheduled replacement of the entire landing gear assembly in accordance with the Boeing maintenance program.

The work is being conducted by a specialist team from ST Engineering at its MRO facility in Seletar Aerospace Park.

The aircraft, again operated by a Rex crew, is scheduled to depart Singapore on November 6 and will fly direct to Melbourne.

Rex is Australia's largest independent regional and domestic airline operating a fleet of 60 Saab 340 and six Boeing 737-800NG aircraft to 61 destinations throughout all states in Australia. In addition to the airline Rex, the Rex Group comprises wholly owned subsidiaries Pel-Air Aviation (air freight, aeromedical and charter operator) and the two pilot academies, Australian Airline Pilot Academy in Wagga Wagga and Ballarat.
